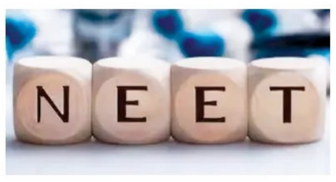
'Learn from UPSC': SC to NTA on NEET paper leak

NEW DELHI

Hearing a batch of petitions over the NEET-UG medical entrance exam's cancellation after a paper leak, the Supreme Court on Friday remarked that the National Testing Agency (NTA) could learn from the Union Public Service Commission (UPSC).

Justice PS Narasimha also asked orally how the failure could occur despite a high-powered committee having been formed after a similar incident in 2024. "Either there is something wrong with the original recommendation or there is no proper implementation," the judge remarked, it said.



'Shouldn't disappoint youngsters'

The apex court said that the situation was "actually very traumatic" not only for the students but for their families as well if something like this happened.

"We should not disappoint our youngsters," a bench of Justices P S Narasimha and Alok Aradhe said while hearing pleas on the matter, including one seeking a direction to replace or restructure the National Testing Agency with a robust and autonomous body to conduct the medical entrance examination.

PM personally supervising situation: Centre

The government then informed the court that Prime Minister Narendra Modi is personally supervising the NEET-UG re-conduct. This submission was made by Solicitor General Tushar Mehta after the apex court sought a response from the government in an affidavit detailing how and in which manner the process and conclusion of the leak probe would be done.

A High-Level Committee of Experts (HLCE) was constituted by the Union Ministry of Education in June 2024, following the NEET-UG paper leak controversy that year. It was headed by former ISRO chairman K Radhakrishnan.

NEET-UG to shift to computer-based format from next year: NTA tells SC

The National Testing Agency on Friday told the Supreme Court that it is prepared to conduct the NEET-UG examination in computer-based test (CBT) mode from next year after consultations with the Centre. The submission was made before a bench of Justices PS Narasimha and Alok Aradhe, which is hearing a batch of petitions related to the alleged NEET-UG paper leak that led to the cancellation of the May 3 examination this year. In an affidavit filed before the apex court, the NTA said a high-level committee of experts (HLCE) had recommended transitioning NEET-UG to the CBT mode. The agency said NEET-UG remained the only major examination conducted by the NTA in pen-and-paper mode, primarily due to the scheme followed by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare and the National Medical Commission. It said all other major NTA examinations are already conducted in CBT mode. "The transition will be implemented from the next examination cycle in consultation with the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare (the client ministry for NEET-UG) - thereby bringing all major NTA examinations onto the CBT platform," it said.

Ministry suspects anti-social elements behind rising train-fire incidents

NEW DELHI

An internal investigation has found that anti-social elements may be behind the increasing incidents of fire and smoke inside train coaches, according to railway ministry officials.

A senior railway official Friday said preliminary investigations into recent fire incidents on various trains indicate the involvement of anti-social elements, as well as irresponsible activities by passengers.

"Today, an incident of fire was reported in the toilet of the D-5 coach of train number 17642 Narkhed-Kachiguda Express at Hingoli station. This train operates under the Nanded Division," the official said.

"Upon receiving information about the incident, Railway Protection Force (RPF) and operational staff took immediate action and quickly controlled the fire with the help of fire extinguishers, thereby averting a major tragedy," he added. He said the preliminary probe indicates foul play and possible role of anti-social elements.

Railway ministry officials said in another incident, the cause of the sudden alarm raised by the Fire and Smoke Detection System (FSDS) on train number 18207 Durg-Ajmer Express was found to be burnt pieces of 'beedi' (hand-rolled cigarettes) in the toilet of one of the coaches.

"According to the onboard housekeeping staff, burnt beedi pieces were found in the toilet of the M-1 coach," officials said.

"We have taken these incidents seriously and a thorough investigation is underway. The prompt and swift action of railway personnel ensured the safety of passengers and brought the situation under control quickly," a senior RPF official said.

'MAHA' TRAGEDY

'Toxic liquor network': 18 deaths in 48 hrs

PUNE

Police have intensified investigation into an illicit liquor network in the Pune district after 18 people died in the last 48 hours following the consumption of methanol-laced alcohol.

While 13 people died in Pimpri Chinchwad's Phugewadi and Dapodi, five died in Pune's Hadapsar and Kalepadal after allegedly consuming the liquor. While the police earlier tied the deaths to unrelated illnesses, a common factor between all the victims' were the symptoms of severe dizziness and abdominal pain. These are consistent with the initial signs of liquor poisoning. Post-mortem reports were later received by the police, following which they began the process of registering cases under Sections 105 (culpable homicide not amounting to murder), 123 (causing hurt by means of harmful substances with intent to commit a crime), along with other relevant sections of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) and the Maharashtra Prohibition Act.

A man named Yogesh Wankhede emerged as a key link in the case and was arrested after he surrendered before the authorities. Questioning revealed he had supplied the chemical-laced liquor in the Pune city and Pimpri Chinchwad areas. Atul Kanade, Superintendent of Police of the State Excise Department, stated that the accused allegedly mixed the toxic chemical methanol into the liquor, resulting in multiple deaths. He is being questioned further to identify others involved in the illicit liquor network.

Vinay Chaube, Police Commissioner, Pimpri-Chinchwad City, said that apart from Wankhede, five accused are currently in police custody, while two others are in the custody of the State Excise Department. The investigation was later handed over to the Crime Branch.

BBA, BCA courses hot ticket in govt colleges

If admission trends in government colleges are any indication, BCA and BBA courses are emerging as the top choices among students this year.

CH NEWS, Bengaluru

In response to the rising demand, the Commissionerate of Collegiate Education has decided to allow 26 government first-grade colleges to introduce BBA and BCA programmes.

The colleges that sought to start new programmes are mainly from Dharwad and Kalaburagi regions. The department said steps will be taken to start the courses only after obtaining approval from the All India Council of Technical Education.

Another 186 colleges will increase their intake for BA, BCom and BSc programmes, including BCA and BBA. For instance, Govt First Grade College in Raichur will get 270 more seats to increase its total intake to 300. SSA Government First Grade College in Ballari has increased BCom seats by 100. Jamkhandi College has improved intake in two BA programmes, history and political science, by 100 each. Many colleges have agreed to run evening shifts with the existing infrastructure to ensure a large number of students can be accommodated.

The principals are willing to conduct classes in two shifts as per the requirement in the few colleges that lack building, furniture and computer infrastructure," said the department of collegiate education in a proposal it initially sent to the govt.

"If students from rural areas can get admission in govt colleges for new courses that are in market demand at minimal cost, these courses will not only help the future of the students but will also increase the General Admission Ratio (GER) of higher education, the department stated.

The courses being introduced are in line with industry demands and will include apprenticeship-embedded learning programmes. At the same time, 458 programmes will be closed down for the 2026-27 academic year and intake will be reduced in 1,480 colleges.

Minister for Higher Education MC Sudhakar had said they would consider closing down some of those. The programmes being closed are three-subject combinations, including history, political science, Kannada and sociology, among others. The number reduced ranges from 20 to 100 seats.

The Collegiate Department noted the failure to reduce intake will result in the university continuing to bear the burden of paying affiliation fee to AICTE. It will also affect the cumulative grade point average scores and thus the National Assessment and Accreditation Council grading.

Misinformation about e-khata without knowledge of law: Moudgil

BENGALURU

Some vested interests, who were benefiting from the previous handwritten system, are spreading misinformation about e-khata and its integration with the registration system without being aware of the legal-administrative framework, said Munish Moudgil, Special Commissioner, Revenue, Greater Bengaluru Authority.

Before the e-account integration, the management of properties in Bengaluru was chaotic. About 85 percent of the transactions coming under the Cauvery system were related to unauthorized layouts, illegal revenue plots, unapproved sub-divisions or faulty ownership records. In 2024-25 itself, before the e-account integration, there were more than 75.000 such transactions. Now, such transactions have almost come down to zero, the release said.

Citizens were being misled into buying properties without planning approval or municipal approvals. Many writ petitions have come before the High Court challenging the incorporation of e-khata. The court has upheld the e-khata system, he said.Digitization and integration have led to resentment among some sections as they have eliminated an opaque system that has benefited middlemen, illegal developers, document abusers and speculative real estate deals for decades, he said.

Food dept server glitch: 40% of families yet to receive ration

CH NEWS, Bengaluru

The server down has resulted in disruption of ration distribution and has caused panic among card holders

The Food Department's server down problem has become a headache for ration distributors for the past week, and even as the month of May draws to a close, they are struggling to distribute food grains to 40 percent of the beneficiaries.

So far, only 60 percent of the people have been distributed rations. For the past one week, it has not been possible to distribute food grains to two people per hour. This problem has worsened since Monday, creating a situation where beneficiaries and fair price shop owners are in a difficult situation. While this has put the ration distributor in trouble, it has also angered the beneficiaries who have been waiting for hours.

Not only in Bengaluru city, but also in most districts of the state including Hassan, Mandya, Davangere, Shivamogga, Belgaum, Uttara Kannada, Mangalore, Tumkur, Yadgir, Chikkamagaluru, Chitradurga, Mysore, Hubballi, the server down problem has increased for the past one week. Therefore, some fair price shop owners have said that it will be difficult to distribute food grains within the stipulated period (by May 31).

If the server is working properly, ration can be distributed to one person in 5 minutes. However, now due to server problems, it is not possible to distribute even 20 mandis of ration per day. In some cases, people are waiting and waiting and then going home. Devaraj, owner of a fair price shop, demanded that the government should immediately take steps to fix the server problem.

The Food Department's software was previously used by about 30 departments. This used to cause problems in the distribution of ration food grains due to server down problems. Now, even after the new software was implemented, the server problem has not been resolved and has worsened. The State Government Ration Distributors Association has demanded that the Food Department find a permanent solution to this.

There are a total of about 1.20 crore ration cards in the state, and 4.43 crore beneficiaries are benefiting from the Annabhagya scheme. Each beneficiary gets 5 kg of rice under the Central Government's Garib Kalyan Scheme and 5 kg of rice each under the State Government's Annabhagya Scheme, making a total of 10 kg of rice. Therefore, food grains are being distributed at a total of 20,500 ration distribution centers including CCS, VSSN, and Fair Price Depot.

"The server problem has eased a bit at around 2.15 pm on Thursday. I don't know how it will be in the coming days. How can ration be distributed to 40% of the people in the next two days. It would be good if the government supplies ration to fair price shops in the first week of the month as before," said Krishnappa, president of the Government Ration Distributors' Association.

Rain risk: 890 trees shadow B'luru metro tracks

CH NEWS, Bengaluru

Within a month, Namma Metro services have been disrupted three times, with heavy rain and gusty winds twice halting operations on parts of the network.

In the latest incident, commuters were stranded for nearly 30 minutes after a tree branch fell on the track between ITPB and Sathya Sai Hospital stations, forcing a suspension of services between Whitefield and Garudacharpalya. The disruption affected passengers across 10 stations on the busy Whitefield corridor during peak evening hours. It also left commuters questioning why Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) had not taken preventive measures, such as pruning tree branches that are very close to the elevated tracks. BMRCL officials said there are around 890 trees located close to the elevated viaducts on the Challaghatta–Whitefield and Silk Institute–Madavara corridors.

Of these, 100-odd ones stand within just 10 metres of the tracks. Officials maintained that periodic pruning is being carried out considering the operational risks posed by the trees during heavy rain and strong winds. On the Purple Line, 523 trees are located close to the viaduct, of which 35 are located within 10 metres, while 370 trees are located on the Green Line, and 71 within 10 metres. Officials claimed that on the elevated section of the Yellow Line from RV Road to Bommasandra, trees do not pose operational risks.

A BMRCL official said pruning of trees located close to Metro viaducts is carried out periodically, especially ahead of monsoon, to prevent branches from falling onto the tracks during heavy rain and high wind conditions.

Minor works are pending and it will be opened for the movement of public vehicles soon.

The construction of the flyover was approved by the corporation in April last year. The work was almost completed in 1 year. This flyover, which passes through Prestige Tech Park, is mostly built on a public road, including the buffer zone of the storm water canal.

According to the agreement, public vehicles will also be allowed to ply on this flyover, said Eastern Municipal Corporation Commissioner DS Ramesh.

Apart from facilitating the nearly 5,000 employees of the Tech Park, it will also provide an alternative route for motorists travelling from the Outer Ring Road to Yamalur and HAL Airport. This flyover will be more convenient as an alternative route as there is heavy traffic jam near Kadubeesanahalli and Marathahalli. The Bellandur Lake Road has already been widened, a GBA official said.

Dolby cinema changing Bengaluru's big-screen experience

South India's first Dolby Cinema opens Bengaluru at AMB Cinemas Kapali. 588-seat venue with Dolby Vision projectors, Atmos sound. Second Dolby Cinema in India after Pune

CH NEWS, Bengaluru

Bengaluru's cinematic landscape has reached a new milestone with the unveiling of South India's first Dolby Cinema auditorium, a ground-breaking addition that elevates the city to the forefront of India's premium entertainment ecosystem. The state-of-the-art venue opened at AMB Cinemas, Kapali, in Gandhinagar on January 16, 2026, marking a transformative moment for film enthusiasts across the southern region.

The Dolby Cinema venture represents a strategic collaboration between Dolby Laboratories, the global leader in immersive entertainment technology, and AMB Cinemas, the prestigious multiplex chain jointly owned by the Asian Group and Telugu film superstar Mahesh Babu.

This partnership brings Bengaluru's first Dolby Cinema experience to India's Silicon Valley, making it only the second Dolby Cinema location in the entire country, following Pune's debut five months earlier.

The 588-seat Dolby Cinema auditorium has been purpose-built from the ground up to deliver next-generation immersion for audiences demanding world-class storytelling experiences.

The venue features dual projection powered by the Christie 6K Dolby Vision projector, Barco laser projection across eight other auditoria, and Dolby Atmos sound technology that creates a fully immersive audio environment.

Located within the 9-screen AMB Cinemas complex in Kapali Mall, the multiplex stands on the historic site of the original Kapali Theatre, which closed in 2017 after serving audiences for nearly 50 years. The new facility also includes an exclusive MLounge, offering premium amenities for discerning moviegoers.

The inaugural film screened in Dolby Cinema format was Mana Shankara Vara Prasad Garu, presented in both Dolby Vision and Dolby Atmos, setting the standard for future releases. Tickets are available through AMB Cinemas' official website and BookMyShow, with exclusive offers and special previews rolling out in the days following the launch.

This launch represents Mahesh Babu's strategic expansion of AMB Cinemas into Karnataka, building on the brand's established presence in Hyderabad. The superstar actor expressed his excitement about experiencing South India's first Dolby Vision at the Bengaluru venue, praising the audience response and the premium experience delivered.

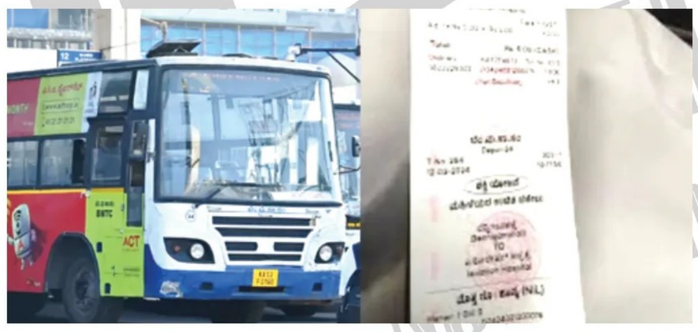
For Bengaluru's film-loving population, the arrival of Dolby Cinema means unprecedented access to immersive movie experiences without leaving the city, positioning Karnataka at the forefront of South India's premium entertainment revolution.

BMTC is planning to allow private advertisements on the back of tickets issued through ETMs, tapping into its daily 45 lakh ridership across 6,275 buses to raise non-fare revenue, while continuing its existing bus-body ads.

BMTC PLANS ADS ON BUS TICKETS TO BOOST REVENUE

CH NEWS, Bengaluru

Bengaluru Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC) will monetise blank space on ETM tickets with private advertisements, aiming to boost revenue from its 45 lakh daily commuters, while banning tobacco, liquor and obscene content.



BMTC is working on a new revenue stream by allowing private advertisements on passenger tickets issued in its buses. The corporation, which already earns from ads on bus bodies and stations, is now looking to monetise the unused space on the back side of tickets printed through electronic ticketing machines (ETMs).

According to BMTC officials, the plan is to permit advertisements from private companies, educational institutions and other commercial establishments on the rear side of tickets issued to commuters. At present, this space is blank. By converting it into an advertising medium, the corporation expects to significantly boost its non-fare revenue without burdening passengers with higher ticket prices.

BMTC operates around 6,275 buses and carries more than 45 lakh passengers every day across Bengaluru. With such a large daily ridership, the ticket itself becomes a powerful advertising tool, giving brands direct visibility in the hands of commuters. The corporation is considering offering the ticket-space advertising rights for a period of one year, with tenders likely to be invited soon to select agencies or advertisers.

Currently, BMTC earns about Rs 57.48 crore annually from various advertising contracts, including branding on buses. The new ticket-based advertising initiative is expected to add to this figure and strengthen the corporation's finances, especially at a time when operational costs are rising.

However, BMTC has made it clear that there will be strict content guidelines. Advertisements related to tobacco, alcohol and any form of obscene or objectionable content will be completely prohibited from being printed on tickets.

Traffic diversions on Trumpet Road flyovers near B'luru Airport

CH NEWS, Bengaluru

Works near the trumpet interchange to Bengaluru airport will trigger diversions and lane restrictions, so flyers are urged to start early and follow traffic police advisories

Traffic diversions will be in place on the trumpet road flyovers leading to Kempegowda International Airport as authorities take up major infrastructure works to ease congestion and improve access to the terminal. The changes, announced by the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) and Bengaluru traffic police, will impact vehicles using the trumpet interchange near the airport on Ballari Road (NH 44).

The works are part of a project to build new flyovers and Road Overbridges (ROBs) near the trumpet junction, which connects the highway to the airport. Existing roundabouts and medians on the approach will be demolished and rebuilt, while two four lane flyovers and upgraded at grade roads will provide smoother, signal free access to the terminal once completed.

During construction, certain loops and ramps on the trumpet road flyovers will be partially or fully closed in phases, and traffic will be redirected via alternative links and service roads. Authorities have said that access to the airport will be maintained at all times, but motorists may face lane restrictions, speed controls and slower movement, especially during peak hours.

The project brief specifies that contractors must ensure uninterrupted movement for airport bound vehicles and those heading towards Hyderabad along the six lane corridor. Safety measures such as barricades, warning boards, reflective signs, lane markings and traffic marshals will be deployed around work zones to guide drivers and reduce accident risk.

Traffic police have advised passengers travelling to the airport to factor in additional travel time and follow official diversion boards and digital advisories. Commuters from areas such as Hebbal, Yelahanka and northern Bengaluru have also been urged to keep track of updates on diversions as different phases of work begin and end over the coming months.

RELIEF FOR TENANTS

Tenant not responsible for debt of owner: HC

CH NEWS, Bengaluru

The High Court has ruled that it is not mandatory for tenants residing or having offices in the property to deposit 50% of the loan amount to file an appeal against the order of the Debt Recovery Tribunal (DRT) when the owners of properties and buildings that have taken loans from banks become defaulters.

Hearing a petition filed by Ittiam Systems Company in this regard, a division bench headed by Justice Suraj Govindaraj clarified that the tenants in the building cannot be considered as debtors for any reason. Therefore, the liability of the loan cannot be imposed on the tenant.

Section 18 of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest (Sarfaisi) Act refers to both the 'borrower' and 'person other than the borrower' separately. Clause 2 clearly states that only the 'borrower' has to make an advance deposit of 50%. Therefore, the bench said that it would be discriminatory and unfair to impose the burden of the loan on a third party who is not the borrower.

A company named Ittiam Systems Private Limited has been renting 7,045 sq ft on the 4th floor of the 'Consulate-1' building on Richmond Road in Bengaluru, owned by Uttam Chandani, since 2001. The owner of this building, Uttam Chandani, had taken a loan from the 'Bharat Co-operative Bank' in Mumbai. However, when he failed to repay the loan, the bank initiated the acquisition process of the building under the 'Sarfasi' Act and moved to vacate the company's office. Challenging this, the company approached the Debt Recovery Tribunal (DRT). The DRT dismissed the application. Challenging this order, the company filed an appeal in the Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal in Chennai.

Organic Mango-Jackfruit mela in Mysuru from May 29 t0 31

Fair organised by Horticulture Dept under Paramparagat Krishi Vikas Yojana aims to help farmers get better market opportunities for traditional,organic agriculture

MYSURU

A vibrant celebration of organic farming, natural living and rural traditions will come alive in Mysuru as the three-day "Organic Mango and Jackfruit Fair" gets underway from May 29 to 31 at Nexus Centre City Mall in Mysuru.

The fair is being organised jointly by the Horticulture Department under the Paramparagat Krishi Vikas Yojana (PKVY) scheme with the objective of providing better market opportunities for farmers practicing traditional and organic agriculture, said Joint Director of Horticulture Manjunath Angadi.

Addressing a news conference here on Wednesday, he noted that last year's three-day Organic Mango and Jackfruit Fair held at Lalbagh Botanical Garden had received an overwhelming response, prompting organisers to bring the colourful celebration to Mysuru this year with added attractions and activities. Apart from a wide range of organic mangoes and jackfruits, the fair will feature stalls displaying and selling organic food products, value-added farm produce, traditional snacks and eco-friendly goods. Farmers will get a direct platform to market naturally grown fruits to consumers.

Special live demonstrations on preparing mango- and jackfruit-based dishes will also be organised, allowing visitors to taste and purchase the delicacies. Families of farmers from different parts of the state will introduce regional cuisines and traditional food cultures during the event. Another major attraction will be displays of garments and handicrafts made using natural and organic dyes. Organisers will also demonstrate the production, collection and processing methods involved in creating these eco-friendly products.

Workshops on urban gardening, natural soap-making and eco-friendly detergents will be conducted for the public. Experts will demonstrate how native plant varieties can be grown in household spaces and how natural raw materials can be used to prepare daily-use cleaning products.

President of the Biological Society Dr. Ramakrishna said the exhibition will showcase more than 80 local and international mango varieties and over 35 varieties of jackfruit.

"The event is designed to educate the younger generation about the diversity of mangoes and jackfruits found across Karnataka, methods of identifying varieties, and the efforts of farmers who are conserving these precious plant species," he said.

Visitors will also learn about the unique qualities of different varieties, including the famous Tipu Badami mangoes and the diverse jackfruit varieties of Alur, along with information on the climatic conditions best suited for their cultivation and the process of naturally ripening fruits.

The organisers said the fair would offer visitors a sensory experience by highlighting the differences in aroma, colour and taste among various naturally grown fruits.

Raitha Santhe member Kavitha Srinivasan said children would be encouraged to participate in drawing activities based on themes such as natural farming, environmental conservation and livestock rearing.

To promote traditional rural lifestyles, live demonstrations of clay pot-making — considered an integral part of village culture — will also be organised during the fair.

As part of the cultural programmes for children, the play "Pippigondu Pappi," written and directed by noted theatre personality Prasanna Heggodu, will be staged by Bharatiya Shikshana Samsthe, Mysuru, on May 30 from 7 pm to 8 pm.

Members of the Biological Society, including Sahani and Darshan A.M., were present during the announcement of the event.

Lightning claims three lives, cow dead

MYSURU

Mysuru district witnessed a tragic spell of rain-related deaths in the last 24 hours, with three persons — including two men and a farm woman — and a cow losing their lives after being struck by lightning in separate incidents across the district.

In a heartbreaking incident near Yelwal on the outskirts of Mysuru on Tuesday, 43-year-old Roshan, a techie working in Bengaluru and a native of Madikeri in Kodagu district, died after lightning struck him while he was plucking mangoes on his roadside property. Sources said Roshan had entered the farmland during rain when the lightning bolt hit the tree area, leaving him critically injured.

He was initially rushed to a nearby hospital and later shifted to the Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences, whe re doctors declared him brou ght dead. Police said a postmor tem was conducted to ascertain the exact cause of death. Ilwala Police have registered a case and launched an investigation.

Another shocking incident was reported from Maladahaadi village in H.D. Kote taluk, where Appaiah, son of late Subbaiah, died on the spot after lightning struck him around 1 pm on Wednesday. Villagers said he had taken shelter beneath a tree to escape the sudden downpour when the tragedy occurred.

At almost the same time, a cow was killed instantly in Nooralakuppe village of H.D. Kote taluk after being struck by lightning during heavy rain. The cattle owner has appealed to the district administration for compensation.

In yet another tragedy, Yashodamma, a farm woman from Hosapura village in Kasaba Hobli of Hunsur taluk, died after lightning struck her around 1.30 pm. Revenue and taluk administration officials visited the spot and initiated formalities. What has alarmed authorities is the common pattern in all the incidents — the victims had reportedly taken shelter under trees during rain.

"People must strictly avoid standing under trees, electric poles or near power installations during thunderstorms. These become high-risk lightning conductors," disaster management experts repeatedly caution. A senior district administration official said, "All incidents have been reported to the disaster management cell. Necessary procedures, including compensation and awareness measures, are being taken up."

Local residents have urged the administration to intensify public awareness campaigns, especially in rural areas where people often seek temporary shelter under trees during sudden rain spells. With monsoon activity intensifying across the region, officials have appealed to citizens to remain indoors during thunderstorms and follow weather advisories strictly.

Several farmer leaders including taluk and district office bearers participated in the protest and supported the demands raising slogans and calling for urgent relief measures from authorities for the farming community affected by rising input costs in the region.

Prof. Shivaramu credits rural folk for Kannada's survival

Prof. V.N. Shivaramu credited illiterate rural folk for Kannada's survival, claiming educated scholars contributed nothing to the language.

KRISHNAPURADODDI

In a bold statement, Prof. V. N. Shivaramu, Academic Director of IFRO Folklore College, asserted that educated scholars have contributed nothing to the Kannada language. Instead, he credited its rich survival entirely to illiterate rural folks and their artistic skills.

He was speaking at the inauguration of a four-day Sobane Geeta training camp organized by the Bangalore South District Kannada Sahitya Parishad. Prof. Shivaramu explained that while highly educated scholars remain isolated in their research, the melodious performances of traditional folk artists possess a unique power to attract crowds globally.

Sharing this sentiment, Trust Secretary Dr. M. Byre Gowda criticized how modern, trained musicians use limited talent to gain fame as international artists. In contrast, genuine folk artists compose from memory and sing for days using just their natural voices. He warned that traditional folklore can only be saved when these authentic, grassroots creators are brought into the mainstream.

Cultural thinker Sachi Gangadharaiah also expressed deep concern over the collapse of the joint family system, which has severely damaged the transmission of heritage. Adding to this, Karnataka Janapada Academy member Dr. Kempamma noted that while folk songs traditionally guided humans from birth to death, they are tragically losing their original form today.

The event was presided over by Parishad District President B.T. Nagesh, with several veteran artists and fifteen trainees from across Bangalore attending the cultural camp.

BIDAR

Bidar South MLA Dr. Shailendra Beldale inspected Mangalagi's ration center following technical glitches, demanding officials fix software errors and resume halted state Annabhagya rice.

Stepping in to resolve growing public frustration, Bidar South MLA Dr. Shailendra Beldale made a surprise visit to the government ration distribution center in Mangalagi village. The inspection followed numerous complaints from local beneficiaries regarding severe technical glitches in the food grain distribution system.

During his visit, Dr. Beldale interacted directly with poor and middle-class residents, listening to their grievances regarding the recurring software errors. Realizing that these systemic technical failures were plaguing ration centers across the entire constituency, the MLA immediately contacted senior food department officials over the phone. He issued strict directives to rectify the network and software errors immediately to prevent further public harassment.

"The ration system is a vital lifeline for marginalized families," Dr. Beldale emphasized. "Beneficiaries must not face unnecessary hardships to claim food grains that are rightfully theirs. It is the absolute responsibility of local officials to ensure complete transparency and timely service."

Public anger has intensified this month because the center is only distributing a combined 10 kg of rice under the central government's two-month quota. Residents expressed deep dissatisfaction as the Karnataka state government has suddenly halted its additional share of the Annabhagya scheme rice. Dr. Beldale strongly condemned this disruption and demanded that the state government resume its supply without further delay.

Reassuring the anxious villagers, the lawmaker reiterated that his top priority remains responding swiftly to grassroots issues and protecting public interest. Media coordinator Nagesh Sidda accompanied the MLA during the oversight visit.

MP Capt Brijesh Chowta urges extension of three Mangaluru bus routes

MANGALURU

In a proactive move to address the city's growing public transit needs, Mangaluru MP Capt Brijesh Chowta has officially urged the district administration to extend three major city bus routes.

In a formal letter addressed to the Deputy Commissioner, the MP outlined specific route modifications to enhance connectivity for workers, students, and tourists. His recommendations include:

- Route No. 5: Extension from Morgans Gate to Jeppinamogaru.
- Route No. 7: Extension from Urwa Stores to the Baikampady Industrial Area, a move aimed at directly helping industrial workers and daily commuters.
- Route No. 13: Extension into the interior areas of Panambur Beach to provide seamless, direct connectivity for both domestic and international tourists.

"The city is growing rapidly, but several city buses are still operating on old and shorter routes," Capt Chowta stated. He highlighted that the current outdated routes fail to meet the transport demands of an expanding population and subsequently cause financial losses to bus operators.

The MP emphasized that extending these three specific corridors would significantly benefit daily employees and students while simultaneously boosting coastal tourism by providing hassle-free access to major beach destinations.

Acting promptly on the lawmaker's proposal, the Deputy Commissioner's office has officially written to senior transport department officials.

They have been directed to place the route extension matter urgently before the upcoming Regional Transport Authority (RTA) meeting to finalize the decision.

CHIKKAMAGALURU

A sudden resurgence of wild elephant attacks has gripped various parts of N.R. Pura taluk, destroying extensive coffee plantations and leaving local farmers terrified for their lives.

A herd of five wild elephan ts, including calves, has curren tly set up camp at the Vaddigu dda Estate near Kadavanthi. Invading the properties under the cover of darkness, the herd is systematically trampling and destroying valuable coffee, areca nut, and banana crops. Simultaneously, a dangerous lone tusker was spotted roaming near the roads at Marathi Camp near Umblebailu, further escalating tension.

Local farmer Naveen Gowda revealed that the jumbos have split into three distinct groups, frequently attacking villages like Karagane, Saragod, and Bidre. The continuous presen ce of these large mammals has disrupted daily life, leaving laborers too frightened to harvest crops and parents anxious about sending their children to school. HIGH-SPEED MOUNTAIN TRIAL

Ghat Section Trials Begin In June

MANGALURU

A specialist team from the Railway Ministry will start crucial trial runs on the newly electrified Sakleshpur-Subrahmanya Road ghat section during the first week of June. This important testing process is the final step before the railway line is officially declared ready for regular electric train operations.

If these upcoming tests are successful, it will finally clear the path for the highly anticipated Bengaluru-Mangaluru Vande Bharat Express. Railway Minister V. Somanna previously announced that this high-speed train service is scheduled to launch sometime in June.

The upcoming trial is being led by the Research Design and Standards Organisation. They plan to test various types of passenger and freight trains with different weight loads starting June 1. The Mysuru division has already completed initial test runs using an empty electric engine and passenger coaches.

This specific 55-kilometer mountain stretch is famously one of the most difficult and challenging terrains in the entire Indian Railways network. It features a very steep climb, alongside 57 tunnels, 258 bridges, and 108 incredibly sharp curves. Because the area is also highly prone to dangerous landslides, installing the electric lines was a massive engineering challenge.

The entire electrification project for the region cost over 729 crore rupees, with the difficult ghat section alone costing over 93 crore rupees. Engineers designed the new overhead power lines to safely support train speeds of up to 120 kilometers per hour, promising faster and greener travel for passengers soon.

Kuruba Samaj slams Congress over leadership change

VIJAYAPURA

District leaders of the Kuruba Samaj have launched a fierce attack on the Congress high command, accusing the party of grave injustice again st backward classes and Dalit communities following the removal of Siddaramaiah from the Chief Minister's post.

In a joint press statement, Babaleshwar constituency Kuruba Samaj District Vice Presidents Santosh Kuradadi and Bhimana Gowda Biradar strongly condemned the party's dual policies.

They stated that downgrading an unquestionable leader like Siddaramaiah is an absolute insult to the entire Kuruba community, proving that Congress merely views them as a secure vote bank.

The leaders further targeted the party's hypocrisy regarding social justice.

They argued that if the high command insisted on replacing Siddaramaiah, they should have at least appointed a capable leader from the Dalit community as Chief Minister. Failing to do so proves that the party uses marginalized groups solely as a stepping stone to power.

"Siddaramaiah's hard work and massive charisma are the true reasons Congress won a majority in Karnataka," the vice presidents noted, claiming that central leaders have effectively stabbed backward classes in the back.

They criticized the party's stepmotherly attitude, accusing them of intentionally cornering grassroots leaders who built the party during difficult times.

Issuing a stern warning, Kuradadi and Biradar declared that the exploited classes across the state would not tolerate this betrayal. They urged the community's youth to unite against this political suppression and promised to teach the Congress party a proper lesson in the coming days.

The state government has appointed the Karnataka State Cooperative Handloom Weavers' Mahamandal as the official implementing agency for a major business support initiative. Operating under the name Kaveri Handlooms, the Bengaluru-based organization will lead efforts to strengthen micro, small, and medium enterprises.

This strategic move is part of the central government's Raising and Accelerating MSME Performance program. This includes money spent on product packaging, creative branding, and obtaining vital official trade certifications.

Local textile units can now claim cash back for securing official handloom marks, silk marks, and international quality standards like ISO or BIS certification.

These premium quality seals are crucial for small weavers looking to compete in modern commercial markets, but the upfront testing costs often prove too expensive for low-income artisans.

Tribal languages enrich Kannada, Says Abdul Rasheed

MADIKERI

Author Abdul Rasheed highligh ted the profound impact of sma ller tribal languages on the enrichment of Kannada literature. Speaking at the 17th Kodagu District Kannada Literary Conference in Suntikoppa, he rejected the common "Kashmir of Karnataka" label for Kodagu, stating that it undermines the region's distinct cultural identity.

Rasheed emphasized that protecting Kannada in Kodagu directly requires preserving local indigenous dialects like Kodava, Arebhashe, and Jenukuruba. He warned that if these uni que regional streams dry up, Kannada itself will become impoverished. To sustain these endan zgered communities, he proposed employing local resource persons to teach indigenous languages within tribal ashram schools.

The veteran writer called for an educational language formula and a dedicated cultural policy for Kodagu. He urged the government to establish modern digital audio libraries to archive tribal music and to reprint classic works by regional literary icons like Panje Mangesha Raya and Bharathisuthar. Addressing deep social vulnerabilities, Rasheed expressed urgent concern over how poverty, alcoholism, and isolation leave local forest-dwelling tribals prone to silent religious conversions.

Earlier, outgoing conference president Dr. Teethira Rekha Va santh advocated for broad social and religious tolerance to elevate the community.

Cong accuses PM of 'moral cowardice' over Israel stance

The party accused the PM of ignoring Palestinian suffering while strongly backing Israel internationally.

NEW DELHI

The Congress on Friday sharply criticised Prime Minister Narendra Modi over his reported support for Israel during the ongoing conflict in Gaza and other parts of West Asia. Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh said Modi had failed to condemn Israeli military actions in Gaza, Lebanon and the occupied West Bank.

Ramesh reacted after Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu reportedly claimed at a conference in the West Bank that Israel was facing criticism across the world except in India. Ramesh said the support came mainly from Modi's political circle and not from the Indian public as a whole.

He alleged that Modi remained silent on the deaths of Palestinians and on Israel's bombing campaigns in different regions. The Congress leader also claimed Modi did not speak against the reported assassination of Iran's top leadership earlier this year.

Ramesh further alleged that Modi warmly engaged with Israel shortly before large-scale military attacks on Iran began. He claimed the Prime Minister's stand was against India's traditional foreign policy position supporting peace and Palestinian rights. According to Ramesh, Modi's approach reflected "moral cowardice" and was unacceptable to millions of Indians who believe India should maintain a balanced international position.

The Congress leader also said India had historically supported peaceful dialogue and a two-state solution in the Middle East. He argued that New Delhi should continue maintaining independent diplomatic relations instead of appearing completely aligned with one side in the conflict.

Ramesh said many Indians were unhappy with the government's silence on humanitarian issues, including displacement, civilian deaths and restrictions on Palestinian rights.

The ruling government has not yet responded publicly to the Congress leader's latest allegations regarding India's position on Israel and the continuing regional conflict today

AMARAVATI

Andhra Pradesh Congress President Y. S. Sharmila on Friday met senior Congress leader Rahul Gandhi in New Delhi amid growing speculation over her possible nomination to the Rajya Sabha. The meeting has triggered political discussions as the Congress leadership is reportedly considering her name for one of the four Rajya Sabha seats from Karnataka, where elections are scheduled on June 18.

Sharmila avoided giving a direct answer about the reports. When asked if her nomination was discussed, she said the talks mainly focused on Andhra Pradesh politics and strengthening the Congress party in the state. She added that Rahul Gandhi "knows the best" when questioned repeatedly about the Rajya Sabha speculation.

Later, Sharmila shared on X that she met Rahul Gandhi at his residence and discussed several issues related to rebuilding the Congress in Andhra Pradesh. She said Rahul Gandhi also gave suggestions to strengthen the organisation in the state. Congress General Secretary K. C. Venugopal was also reportedly present during the meeting.

Delhi HC refers CJP's X handle to review panel

NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court on Friday directed a review committee under the IT Rules to examine the blocking of satirical group Cockroach Janta Party's X account and take a decision before July 7, while refusing to order immediate restoration of the handle.

Hearing the plea, Justice Purushaindra Kumar Kaurav allowed CJP founder Abhijeet Dipke to appear virtually before the committee and said the panel is empowered to order unblocking if it finds the action unjustified. The court also issued notices to the Centre and X (formerly Twitter) seeking their responses.

The petition challenges the blocking of the digital satirical outfit Cockroach Janta Party (CJP), which claims its content is based on political satire and public commentary. Senior advocate Akhil Sibal, appearing for the petitioner, argued that only specific objectionable posts should be removed instead of blocking the entire account.

BJP backs Shah's stand on illegal infiltration

NEW DELHI

Bharatiya Janata Party leaders on Friday welcomed Union Home Minister Amit Shah's statement that people who leave voluntarily will not face legal action from the West Bengal government, while stressing that illegal infiltration is harming India's economy and security.

At a public event in Gandhinagar, Amit Shah said the BJP government in West Bengal had taken quick steps on border security, including setting up detention centres and transferring land for fencing work along the border.

BJP leaders strongly supported his remarks. Party MP Radhamohan Singh said illegal infiltration is damaging the country's economy and insisted that such individuals should leave India. Bihar minister Ram Kripal Yadav said the issue is being handled seriously under Shah's leadership and alleged that the previous Trinamool Congress government had allowed infiltrators to settle and access public resources.

BJP spokesperson Pratul Shah Deo said the party is implementing what it promises, pointing out that land was handed over to the Border Security Force soon after the party came to power in West Bengal for fencing work. He also said voluntary exit is a better option for illegal migrants, otherwise they may face legal action including fines and imprisonment.

Party MP Lahar Singh Siroya also raised concerns about infiltration in Karnataka, alleging that some migrants were given Aadhaar cards and added to voter lists during earlier governments.

Shah also stated that the BJP currently governs around 80 per cent of India's geographical area and called recent political gains in West Bengal a major achievement for the party. BJP leaders reiterated that stronger border control and strict action against infiltration are necessary to protect national resources and security across the country today.

MADURAI

All India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (AIADMK) leader R. B. Udhayakumar on Friday warned Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) leader Aadhav Arjuna of serious political consequences if attempts to attract AIADMK workers continue.

Udhayakumar rejected Arjuna's claim that nearly 90 per cent of AIADMK cadres were ready to join TVK.

He said such statements were false and warned that continued "poaching" of party workers would lead to a strong political backlash. He said AIADMK workers remain loyal at the grassroots level and cannot be influenced by money or promises.

He also criticised Arjuna, calling him a recent entrant in politics without strong ideological roots. Udhayakumar alleged that TVK is trying to lure opposition party workers using financial influence and other incentives.

He said such actions amount to "body-snatching" of party cadres and would not be tolerated.

The AIADMK leader further argued that the party continues to enjoy strong public support despite election results. He said the party remains committed to public service under the leadership of Edappadi K. Palaniswami and will not be weakened by attempts to divide its cadre base.

Udhayakumar also questioned TVK's political strength, saying it has not yet proven its mandate to claim large-scale support.

He accused the party of creating false narratives about AIADMK weakening while exaggerating its own influence.

Issuing a strong warning, he said AIADMK's cadre base of two crore workers would respond politically and legally if such activities continue.

He added that party workers across Tamil Nadu remain united and prepared to defend the organisation.

TOBACCO CONTROL

Govt launches tobacco-free schools monitoring app

NEW DELHI

On the occasion of World No Tobacco Day 2026, the Union Health Ministry launched the pilot version of the Tobacco-Free Educational Institutions (ToFEI) application to strengthen tobacco-free rules in schools and colleges across India.

The application was launched by Union Health Secretary Punya Salila Srivastava during a national programme held at Kartavya Bhawan under the National Tobacco Control Programme.

The ToFEI application is a digital platform developed to help educational institutions monitor and report compliance with tobacco-free guidelines.

It will support self-assessment by schools and colleges, improve monitoring of tobacco control measures, ensure installation of warning signboards and help enforce the ban on tobacco sales within 100 yards of educational institutions.

The platform will also encourage awareness programmes for students and teachers while improving enforcement of tobacco-free campus measures.

Officials said the application would help states, Union Territories and institutions follow a standard system for reporting and monitoring compliance, thereby creating healthier environments for children and adolescents.

The pilot project will begin in Rajasthan, Meghalaya and Maharashtra.

The government said the pilot phase will help examine operational challenges and improve reporting systems before expanding the platform nationwide.

During the event, the ministry also released a Standard Operating Procedure for collection of tobacco product samples.

The SOP aims to improve surveillance, testing and quality checks of tobacco products through proper collection, storage and transportation methods.

Addressing the programme, Punya Salila Srivastava said this year's World No Tobacco Day theme, "Unmasking the Appeal - Countering Nicotine and Tobacco Addiction", highlights the growing concern over marketing strategies targeting youth.

She said attractive packaging, flavours, surrogate advertisements and social media promotions often create misleading impressions about tobacco and nicotine products among young people across the country today.

The ex-CM accused the Kerala government of ignoring welfare achievements and avoiding criticism of Centre policies

Pinarayi lambasts Kerala govt policies

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Leader of Opposition Pinarayi Vijayan on Friday criticised the UDF government's policy address presented in the Kerala Assembly, saying it lacked clarity on major economic and development issues facing the state.

Vijayan said the address ignored several welfare schemes and development projects started by the previous Left Democratic Front government. He claimed there was no mention of Kerala Infrastructure Investment Fund Board, Kudumbasree and other missions that transformed the state and improved people's lives.

The former chief minister also said the policy speech failed to discuss the Left government's long-term development plan for Kerala till 2035 and lacked a clear roadmap for the UDF's promise of creating a "Puthuyugam" or new-age Kerala.

Vijayan accused the government of creating a false impression about Kerala's financial condition. He claimed the state treasury currently holds Rs 5,429 crore, citing Reserve Bank of India figures, and said Kerala's debt had reduced by more than five percent during the last five years.He further alleged that the UDF government was avoiding responsibility for implementing promises made during the Assembly elections. According to him, the policy address did not explain how the government would protect people from the effects of the Centre's economic policies.

Vijayan also criticised the speech for remaining silent on rural employment schemes, poverty eradication efforts and issues related to offshore deep-sea mining and the Blue Economy project announced by Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

He warned that the state's development and welfare measures could weaken under the present administration. The policy address of the V D Satheesan government was read out by Governor Rajendra Vishwanath Arlekar during the first session of the 16th Kerala Legislative Assembly on Friday.

West Asia crisis reduces global air passenger demand

NEW DELHI

Global air passenger demand fell by 3.4 per cent in April 2026 due to tensions and conflict in West Asia, according to the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

The aviation body said the sharp decline in Middle East travel significantly affected overall global passenger traffic.

IATA stated that total demand, measured in revenue passenger kilometres, declined 3.4 per cent compared to April 2025.

However, excluding the Middle East region, global demand increased by 1.2 per cent. International passenger demand dropped by 5.3 per cent, while domestic demand remained largely unchanged during the period.

IATA Director General Willie Walsh said the war in West Asia caused a 46.6 per cent fall in passenger demand for Middle Eastern airlines.

He also said the aviation industry remains highly unstable as jet fuel prices more than doubled during April, increasing operational costs and airfares worldwide.

According to the report, airlines are reducing flight schedules in the coming months because of rising fuel costs and weaker travel demand.

The association noted that Middle Eastern carriers recorded a 48.1 per cent fall in passenger demand and a major decline in load factors.

Asia-Pacific airlines reported a 3 per cent increase in passenger demand, while European carriers recorded a 0.9 per cent rise.

HOOCH CRACKDOWN

Fadnavis orders tough action after hooch tragedy

MUMBAI

Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Friday ordered strict action against those responsible for the deaths caused by illegal liquor in Pune and Pimpri Chinchwad.

At least 13 people died after consuming toxic hooch, while several others remain hospitalised in critical condition.

Fadnavis said the incident would be treated as murder and not merely negligence. He instructed police officials to ensure that no accused person escapes punishment and warned that there would be absolutely no leniency against the culprits.

The Chief Minister said he had spoken directly with the police commissioners of Pune and Pimpri Chinchwad.

According to him, investigators identified the exact place where dangerous methanol-like chemicals were mixed with illicit liquor before distribution.

Police have arrested eight suspects so far, while teams are searching for others linked to the illegal network. Multi-agency squads involving police, State Excise officials and forensic experts have launched raids across affected areas to dismantle the racket completely.

Pune Police Commissioner Amitesh Kumar also visited localities such as Hadapsar to personally supervise the investigation and crackdown operations.

Officials said medical treatment is being provided on priority to victims admitted to hospitals.

Police sources stated that the death toll may increase as more suspected cases emerge from nearby areas.

Investigators suspect nearly 215 litres of industrial methanol were mixed into country liquor.

The main suspect under investigation is alleged bootlegger Yogesh Wankhede, who reportedly supplied the deadly liquor batches.

Authorities are examining medical reports and forensic evidence to build a strong legal case against those involved in manufacturing and distributing the toxic alcohol.

Local residents and victims' families demanded stronger action to prevent similar tragedies in future and ensure strict monitoring of illegal liquor activities across the region completely.

Trump yet to approve US-Iran ceasefire deal

The US-Iran reportedly finalised a draft ceasefire extension agreement amid ongoing regional tensions and disputes.

WASHINGTON

A memorandum of understanding for a proposed 60-day ceasefire extension between the United States and Iran has reportedly been finalised, but approval from US President Donald Trump is still pending.

Reuters, citing Axios, reported that the draft agreement had been completed after several rounds of negotiations. However, the White House declined to comment on the report. Earlier, Trump had denied reports claiming that a final agreement with Iran had already been reached.

The development came shortly after reports of fresh exchanges of fire between American and Iranian military forces. Over recent days, Trump administration officials have repeatedly stated that talks with Iran were progressing and that a deal was close, though important differences still remain unresolved.

One major issue involves the release of frozen Iranian funds and the transfer of Iran's enriched uranium. Another point of disagreement concerns Iran's proposal to charge toll fees for ships passing through the Strait of Hormuz, one of the world's most important shipping routes for oil and gas trade.

US Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent said Washington would not accept any attempt to impose tolls on vessels using the Strait.

He repeated Trump's earlier position that the waterway must remain open for free international navigation if any agreement is to move forward.

At the same time, Trump is reportedly facing pressure from members of his own Republican Party.

Some lawmakers have warned against signing any deal that does not immediately and directly address Iran's nuclear programme.

Despite progress in negotiations, uncertainty continues over whether the proposed ceasefire extension will receive final approval from both sides.

Druze volunteers struggle amidst Sweida violence

GALILEE

A Druze emergency centre in Israel says attacks, shortages and fear continue in Syria's Sweida province despite reports of a ceasefire.

A Druze-run emergency centre in northern Israel has said the crisis in Syria's Sweida province is continuing despite reports of a ceasefire in the region. The volunteer group was formed after the July 2025 violence in Sweida that reportedly killed thousands of people and forced many families to flee their homes.

The centre, based in the Galilee region, keeps contact with Druze communities in southern Syria and sends humanitarian aid, including food, blankets and medicines. Around 600 volunteers are involved in collecting supplies and sharing updates about conditions in Sweida.

Retired Lt.-Col. Akram Mansour, spokesperson for the centre, said attacks and pressure on Druze villages have not stopped. He said people in Sweida continue to face fear, shortages of water and food, and repeated violence.

Mansour said the world does not fully understand the seriousness of the situation. He called on international organisations and governments to send independent teams to Sweida to check conditions directly instead of depending only on official reports.

The July 2025 clashes involved Druze militias, Bedouin tribal fighters and Syrian government forces. Human rights groups and investigators linked to the United Nations reported allegations of killings, looting and abductions during the violence. Some reports estimated that more than 1,700 people were killed and nearly 200,000 displaced.

Mansour also appealed to world leaders, including US President Donald Trump, to examine the situation closely. He said the conflict should not be seen as a religious issue but as violence carried out by armed groups.

According to the volunteer centre, most of the aid work is funded by the Druze community in Israel. Mansour said volunteers in Julis and nearby areas work day and night to organise donations and transport supplies to families in southern Syria. He urged foreign governments to investigate the crisis independently and support civilians there.

Indian oil tanker safely crosses Strait

NEW YORK

An oil tanker carrying petroleum for India has safely crossed the Strait of Hormuz and is heading towards Visakhapatnam. The vessel, named Nissos Keros, is expected to arrive in India on June 3.

The tanker, sailing under the Marshall Islands flag, left Shajrah on May 21. On Friday morning, it was reported in the northern Arabian Sea near India's western coast. The ship is owned by Arethusa Shipping Corporation and operated by Kyklades Maritime Corporation. Maritime records show the vessel is 333 metres long and can carry more than 318,000 tonnes of oil.The Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps Navy allowed 23 commercial vessels, including oil tankers and container ships, to pass through the Strait during the previous 24 hours. Iranian authorities said the ships crossed after formal coordination with the IRGC Navy.The Strait of Hormuz remains a major global concern because around 20 per cent of the world's oil and gas passes through it. Tensions increased after Iran announced plans to regulate traffic through a new body called the Persian Gulf Strait Authority. Tehran has also suggested that ships may need to pay fees for crossing the waterway.

The United Nations has stated that charging fees for passage through international waters is illegal. The United States has asked Iran to ensure free movement through the Strait. US President Donald Trump recently said the Strait must remain open to all countries.

The International Maritime Organisation's Secretary-General Arsenio Dominguez said nearly 1,500 ships are currently stranded in the Persian Gulf because of the ongoing tensions and uncertainty surrounding maritime security in the region.

ETGE flays Pak over support for China's Xinjiang policies

The East Turkistan Government-in-Exile (ETGE) has criticised Pakistan and China over a joint statement issued on May 26, 2026, accusing Islamabad of supporting Beijing's policies in Xinjiang, which the group calls East Turkistan.

In a statement shared on X, the ETGE condemned China for what it described as genocide and colonial occupation in the region. The organisation also accused Pakistan of backing China's position for political and financial reasons.

The ETGE alleged that China has carried out mass detention, forced labour, forced sterilisation of Muslim women, destruction of mosques, and restrictions on Islamic practices in Xinjiang.

It further claimed that Uyghur Muslims and other Turkic communities have faced cultural repression and separation of families.

The group criticised Pakistan for repeatedly supporting China in bilateral statements and said this was not the first time Islamabad had defended Beijing's policies on the issue.

The ETGE also rejected references to the East Turkistan Islamic Movement, or ETIM, in the joint statement. According to the organisation, China used the term after the September 11 attacks to link the East Turkistan independence movement with terrorism.

Quoting ETGE Foreign Minister Salih Hudayar, the statement said Pakistan's support for China contradicted its claims of defending oppressed Muslims.

The ETGE urged Pakistan to withdraw support for China's Xinjiang policies and end related security cooperation.

Former Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina alleged political targeting after deaths of senior Awami League leaders

Hasina seeks probe into death of Awami League leaders

DHAKA

Bangladesh's former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina expressed concern over the deaths of several Awami League leaders and activists, accusing the current Bangladesh Nationalist Party government of continuing political violence that began during the interim administration led by Muhammad Yunus. She said the recent incidents showed a serious failure to protect democratic values and uphold the rule of law in the country.

Hasina's statement came after the death of former Awami League lawmaker and freedom fighter Md Dabirul Islam, aged 78, at a hospital in Dhaka on Thursday. He had been released on bail in February because of poor health after spending months in custody in an extortion case filed in October 2024.

In a statement shared on the Awami League's social media platform, Hasina claimed Islam faced severe physical and mental suffering while in detention.

She also questioned why his son, former MP Mazharul Islam Sujan, remains jailed despite being linked to the same case.

Hasina alleged that Islam's death was not natural and called it a planned killing. She further referred to the earlier death of former minister and Awami League leader Ramesh Chandra Sen, who reportedly died after becoming ill in jail in February.

She demanded an independent investigation into both deaths, saying the loss of two respected political leaders from the same district raised serious concerns and should not be ignored by authorities or international observers.

She also criticised the court system, saying different rulings were given to two accused people connected to the same case.

According to Hasina, such actions have created fear among opposition supporters and raised doubts about judicial fairness in Bangladesh.

She urged authorities to ensure transparent investigations and protect political rights across the country fairly.

POLITICS OVER WATER

Sindh govt draws criticism over Karachi water crisis

KARACHI

Hafiz Naeem ur Rehman has criticised the Pakistan Peoples Party government over Karachi's worsening water shortage, accusing authorities of failing to solve the crisis despite ruling Sindh province for nearly 18 years.

Speaking to journalists during Eid celebrations, the Jamaat-e-Islami leader said Karachi residents continued observing religious traditions despite facing serious civic problems. He stated that Jamaat-e-Islami had arranged collective sacrifice activities at more than 150 places across the city as part of its community service efforts.

Hafiz Naeem said thousands of families were struggling to access water during the Eid holidays. He questioned why the city's water shortage remained unresolved after years of uninterrupted rule by the provincial government. He also criticised the Sindh Solid Waste Management Board, alleging that despite receiving a budget of Rs43 billion, it failed to ensure proper cleanliness and disposal of animal waste during Eid.

The Jamaat-e-Islami chief accused provincial authorities of poor management and misuse of public funds. He also challenged statements made by Karachi Mayor Murtaza Wahab, who reportedly denied claims of a major water shortage in the city.

Reports said nearly 70 per cent of Karachi has faced severe disruption in water supply.

Residents in several areas have reportedly been forced to buy expensive water tankers because of the shortage and rising temperatures.

Neighbourhoods including Gulistan-e-Jauhar, Gulshan-e-Iqbal, Azizabad, Liaquatabad, North Nazimabad, Nazimabad and North Karachi have experienced serious water shortages for more than two weeks, causing difficulties for thousands of residents across Pakistan's largest city.

PV SINDHU PRAISES ESHA SINGH AFTER GOLD

PV SINDHU LAUDED ESHA SINGH FOLLOWING HER RECORD-BREAKING GOLD MEDAL PERFORMANCE AT THE ISSF WORLD CUP

NEW DELHI

Indian badminton star PV Sindhu has showered praise on young pistol shooter Esha Singh after the latter produced a remarkable performance to win gold and set a world record at the ISSF World Cup in Munich.

Esha, one of India's most promising shooting talents, delivered a dominant display in the women's 25m pistol event at the second ISSF World Cup Rifle/Pistol leg of the year. The 21-year-old secured the gold medal with a world record score of 43, which also stands as a junior world record. Her achievement came at the historic Olympic Shooting Range in Munich, one of the most prestigious venues in international shooting.

Reacting to the achievement, Sindhu praised Esha's temperament and ability to perform under pressure. In a post on social media platform X, the two-time Olympic medallist described the shooter as a calm and composed athlete who consistently rises to the occasion when it matters most.

"I have known of Esha and heard wonderful things about her for many years now. She trains in Hyderabad and has been supported by organisations that have played a significant role in nurturing sporting talent. I have always heard the same thing about her—calm, quiet, doesn't say much, but an absolute killer when it matters," Sindhu wrote.

The badminton star further congratulated Esha on her historic feat, saying that it was incredible to see her break a world record and claim gold on the international stage. Sindhu added that the future holds immense possibilities for the young shooter and encouraged her to continue reaching greater heights.

Esha's gold-medal-winning performance was marked by exceptional consistency and precision. In the final, she delivered perfect scores in five of the ten series of five shots, demonstrating complete control throughout the contest. Her dominance was reflected in the final standings, where she finished five shots ahead of Germany's Doreen Vennekamp, a former world champion competing in front of a home crowd.

Former Indian cricket opener Shikhar Dhawan also congratulated Esha on her achievement. In a message shared on social media, Dhawan described her success as another example of a young Indian athlete making a mark on the global stage. He said her world-record performance highlighted the bright future of Indian shooting.

Esha's triumph adds to an already impressive career that includes participation in the Olympics, multiple medals at world championships and success at the Asian Games.

Govt Support Boosts Pranati Nayak's Major Preparations

NEW DELHI

Indian gymnast Pranati Nayak is receiving extensive support from the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, the Sports Authority of India (SAI) and the Target Olympic Podium Scheme (TOPS) as she intensifies preparations for the 2026 Commonwealth Games and Asian Games.

The sustained assistance includes international exposure opportunities, foreign training programmes, national coaching camps and personalized support designed to help the country's leading gymnasts perform at the highest level. The support forms part of the government's broader strategy to strengthen India's gymnastics programme ahead of key international competitions.

A participant at the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games, Pranati Nayak is currently attending the Senior and Junior Women's Artistic Gymnastics National Coaching Camp at the High Performance Centre in Bhubaneswar. The camp, running from May 22 to June 20, is aimed at preparing Indian gymnasts for the 13th Senior Asian Championships scheduled to be held in Zunyi, China, from June 25 to 28, 2026.

Pranati has been selected as a member of the Indian senior women's artistic gymnastics team for the continental event. According to the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, the coaching camp has been approved with a budget of Rs 23.52 lakh and includes 21 participants comprising senior and junior gymnasts, coaches and support staff.

Extensive government assistance is helping gymnast Pranati Nayak prepare for major international competitions ahead

The government has also approved financial assistance worth Rs 36.59 lakh for the participation of the Indian Senior and Junior Women's Artistic Gymnastics contingent at the Asian Championships. The delegation consists of 17 members, including athletes, coaches and support personnel.

In addition to team-based support, Pranati has benefited from personalized assistance under the Target Olympic Podium Scheme. A financial grant of Rs 5.89 lakh was sanctioned for her participation in the FIG Artistic Gymnastics World Challenge Cup held in Tashkent, Uzbekistan, from May 19 to 25, 2026. The support covered Pranati, her coach Ashok Kumar Mishra and physiotherapist Dr. Sweta Attili.

The investment proved fruitful as Pranati returned with a silver medal from the prestigious international competition, adding another achievement to her growing list of accomplishments.

In a separate initiative aimed at enhancing India's long-term gymnastics prospects, TOPS approved Rs 75.65 lakh for an international training camp in the United Kingdom between November and December 2025. The programme also included participation in two international competitions conducted in February and April 2026. Although Pranati was part of the 16-member contingent selected for the programme, she was unable to participate due to injury.

Earlier this year, SAI had also organised a senior national coaching camp in Bhubaneswar from February 11 to March 15 as part of India's preparations for the Commonwealth Games and Asian Games.

The Supreme Court permitted Vinesh Phogat to participate in Asian Games selection trials

Supreme Court Allows Vinesh Phogat To Join Trials

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday allowed wrestler Vinesh Phogat to participate in the Asian Games 2026 selection trials while agreeing to examine a petition filed by the Wrestling Federation of India challenging the relief granted to her by the Delhi High Court.

A bench comprising Justices PS Narasimha and Alok Aradhe issued a notice on the Special Leave Petition filed by the Wrestling Federation of India and permitted Phogat to compete in the selection trials scheduled for May 30 and 31.

The apex court directed that Phogat be allowed to take part in the trials and clarified that the larger legal and procedural issues raised by the Wrestling Federation of India would be examined at a later stage. As a result, the interim relief granted by the Delhi High Court will continue to remain in force for the time being.

During the hearing, the bench expressed concern regarding matters related to Phogat's anti-doping obligations. The court specifically referred to issues surrounding her failure to provide authorities with information regarding her whereabouts during the relevant period, an important requirement under anti-doping regulations.

The judges observed that compliance with anti-doping protocols is a critical responsibility for every athlete. These obligations include timely participation in testing procedures and maintaining accurate whereabouts information to facilitate out-of-competition testing. The court indicated that these concerns would be considered while examining the broader issues involved in the case.

The Supreme Court also raised questions about certain observations made by the Delhi High Court while granting interim relief to the wrestler. In particular, the apex court noted its reservations regarding the High Court's prima facie observation that the Wrestling Federation of India's eligibility framework appeared to be exclusionary in nature.

Questioning the basis for such findings at the interim stage, the bench observed that the federation's selection policy had been formulated in February 2026 and was intended to apply uniformly to all athletes competing for selection. The judges suggested that such conclusions may require a more detailed examination before being recorded.

Despite these observations, the Supreme Court chose not to interfere with the immediate relief granted to Phogat. By allowing her participation in the trials, the court ensured that the three-time Olympian would not lose an opportunity to compete for a place in India's squad for the 2026 Asian Games while the legal proceedings continue.

Carlsen Defeats Gukesh in Thrilling Norway Chess Clash

OSLO

Round Four of the prestigious Norway Chess tournament delivered another captivating day of elite-level competition in Oslo, highlighted by a much-anticipated showdown between World No. 1 Magnus Carlsen and reigning World Champion Gukesh Dommaraju. Playing with the black pieces, Carlsen produced a clinical display to defeat Gukesh in a complex and strategically demanding encounter. The game remained evenly balanced through much of the opening and early middlegame, with neither player gaining a significant edge. However, Carlsen gradually increased the pressure and capitalized on small inaccuracies from the young Indian grandmaster.

As the contest entered a critical phase, Gukesh found himself under mounting pressure and short of time on the clock. Carlsen expertly converted his positional advantage into a winning endgame, securing an important classical victory. The result significantly boosts the Norwegian star's position in the tournament standings after a relatively slow start to his campaign on home soil.

The other two classical games in the open section ended in draws following closely contested battles. Wesley So and Alireza Firouzja played a strategic encounter in which neither player managed to create decisive winning chances. The game proceeded to an Armageddon playoff, where So emerged victorious to claim the additional points.

Meanwhile, Vincent Keymer and R Praggnanandhaa fought a balanced contest featuring opportunities for both players. After the classical game ended in a draw, Praggnanandhaa prevailed in the Armageddon playoff to secure valuable extra points.

Despite losing in Armageddon, Firouzja continues to hold the lead in the overall standings after four rounds. Carlsen's victory over Gukesh has nevertheless strengthened his challenge and moved him closer to the top contenders.

The women's section of the tournament also witnessed a series of tightly fought encounters, with all three classical games ending in draws before being decided in Armageddon.

Koneru Humpy and Zhu Jiner shared the points in classical play after a tense struggle. Zhu later won the Armageddon game to collect the bonus points. World champion Ju Wenjun held off persistent pressure from Bibisara Assaubayeva to secure a draw in their classical encounter. Assaubayeva subsequently triumphed in Armageddon to earn additional points and maintain her impressive form.

In the final women's game, Divya Deshmukh enjoyed promising positions against Anna Muzychuk for much of the middlegame. However, Muzychuk defended resiliently to force a draw before winning the Armageddon playoff.

Captain Ketan's hat-trick leads India men to dominating 13-0 win over Kazakhstan

KAKAMIGAHARA

Captain Ketan Kushwaha scored a hat-trick as the Indian men's hockey team opened its campaign at the U-18 Asia Cup 2026 with a dominant 13-0 victory over Kazakhstan in Pool A here on Friday.

Ketan led from the front with three goals, while Prahalad Rajbhar, Ashish Tani Purti, Ansh Bahutra and Shahrukh Ali registered a brace each.

India controlled proceedings from the outset and were rewarded for their persistence after Kazakhstan weathered the early pressure. Shahrukh Ali (12') broke the deadlock with a thunderous strike from inside the circle before Prahalad Rajbhar (14') doubled the advantage just two minutes later, giving India a firm grip on the contest by the end of the first quarter.

Goals continued to flow in the second quarter. Captain Kushwaha (18') was well placed to finish from close range after India won possession high up the pitch, while Gazee Khan (20') added a fourth shortly after to extend the lead.

India showed no signs of easing off before the break. Shahrukh (29') completed his brace with a clinical finish, and Purti (30') converted a penalty corner a minute later, as India surged to a commanding 6-0 lead at half-time.

The third quarter proved to be the most productive, with four of India's five goals coming through penalty corners. Bahutra (31', 44') converted twice while Purti also went on to complete a brace.

In the final minute of the quarter, Kushwaha scored twice in quick succession, including a penalty corner, to complete his hat-trick. India finished the third quarter with an 11-0 lead.

The men in blue kept the pressure on in the final quarter to round off a resounding victory. Akash Deep (47') tapped the ball into an open goal to put his name on the scoresheet before Rajbhar scored his second goal of the day in the 51st minute.

India will next face hosts Japan on May 31 as they look to continue their winning start to the tournament.

India Central Asia Uranium Ties Gain Momentum

India's expanding nuclear energy ambitions are strengthening long-term uranium cooperation with key Central Asian nations

NEW DELHI

India's rapidly growing civilian nuclear energy programme is creating new opportunities for deeper strategic cooperation with Central Asian countries, particularly Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan, according to an analysis published by Geopolitical Monitor. The report highlights that long-term uranium supply agreements are evolving beyond conventional trade arrangements and are becoming an important pillar of broader geopolitical and economic engagement between India and the region.

A major milestone in this cooperation was reached in 2026 when Kazakhstan's national uranium company Kazatomprom and India's Department of Atomic Energy signed a uranium supply contract valued at more than $4 billion. The agreement is being viewed as a significant step in transforming bilateral energy relations into a long-term strategic partnership.

Analysts believe the deal reflects India's determination to diversify its nuclear fuel sources while strengthening ties with resource-rich countries across Eurasia.

India has set ambitious targets for expanding its civilian nuclear power capacity. The country aims to achieve 100 gigawatts of civilian nuclear capacity by 2047, with an interim objective of reaching 22,480 megawatts by 2031-32. The government is also placing strong emphasis on the development of small modular reactors, which are expected to play a key role in future energy generation. To support these goals, the 2025-26 budget allocated more than $2 billion for nuclear development initiatives, while a dedicated Nuclear Energy Mission with funding of Rs 200 billion seeks to establish at least five domestically designed small modular reactors by 2033.

Kazakhstan is emerging as a particularly valuable partner for India's nuclear ambitions. The Central Asian nation possesses around 14 percent of the world's uranium reserves and remains the largest uranium producer globally. In 2025, Kazakhstan produced approximately 25,800 tonnes of uranium, including 13,500 tonnes attributed to Kazatomprom. This accounted for nearly one-fifth of global primary uranium output, underlining the country's critical role in international nuclear fuel markets.

The report notes that uranium cooperation between India and Kazakhstan already rests on a strong institutional foundation. Kazakhstan has long been one of India's major uranium suppliers alongside Canada. However, the latest agreement elevates the relationship from regular commercial transactions to a more comprehensive strategic connection.

For New Delhi, securing reliable uranium supplies from Kazakhstan strengthens energy security and reduces dependence on a limited number of suppliers as nuclear power generation expands. For Kazakhstan, the growing Indian market offers greater economic opportunities and strategic flexibility amid strong Chinese involvement in Central Asia's extraction, logistics and raw material sectors.

Assam reports strong growth and fiscal stability

GUWAHATI

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma highlighted the state's improving economic performance and sound fiscal management, stating that Assam is steadily advancing towards the goal of becoming a Viksit Assam through sustained growth, responsible governance and prudent financial planning.

Sharing key economic indicators, the Chief Minister said Assam has successfully maintained a revenue surplus for five consecutive years, from 2020 to 2025. The achievement, he noted, reflects the state's strengthening fiscal position and its commitment to disciplined public finance management. A revenue surplus occurs when government income exceeds expenditure, allowing greater flexibility in funding development initiatives while maintaining financial stability.

According to figures released by the state government, Assam's contribution to the national Gross Domestic Product (GDP) has also registered a significant increase over the past five years. The state's share in the national GDP rose from 1.71 per cent in 2020-21 to 1.95 per cent in 2024-25, indicating steady economic expansion and growing participation in the country's overall economic output. Describing these developments as important milestones, Chief Minister Sarma said the state government's emphasis on infrastructure development, investment promotion, fiscal discipline and welfare-oriented governance has helped create a stronger economic foundation. He stated that these efforts are contributing to sustained growth while ensuring responsible management of public resources.

A Viksit Assam rests on the foundations of fiscal prudence and sustained economic expansion, the Chief Minister said in a statement shared through social media. He added that maintaining a revenue surplus for five straight years demonstrates the government's ability to balance development spending with financial responsibility.

ICRA report shows dip in domestic air travel demand

NEW DELHI

Domestic air passenger traffic in India fell 2 per cent year-on-year (YoY) in April 2026 to 140.8 lakh passengers, amid geopolitical disruptions, a report said on Friday.

The domestic air traffic stood at 143.1 lakh passengers in the same month last year, according to ICRA's latest monthly report on the aviation sector.

On a sequential basis, traffic was also lower by 2 per cent from 143.7 lakh passengers recorded in March 2026, the report said.

The report noted that airlines' capacity deployment in April 2026 was 0.6 per cent lower than the year-ago period and 1.4 per cent lower compared to March 2026.

For the full financial year 2025-26, domestic air passenger traffic stood at 1,677.4 lakh passengers, registering a modest year-on-year growth of 1.4 per cent, in line with ICRA's estimate of 0-3 per cent growth.

International air passenger traffic for Indian carriers grew 3.9 per cent to 350 lakh passengers during FY2026, lower than the agency's earlier estimate of 7-9 per cent growth.

ICRA said it had revised its outlook on the Indian aviation industry to Negative from Stable in March 2026 due to the expected weakening in profitability caused by higher aviation turbine fuel (ATF) prices, depreciation of the rupee against the US dollar and disruption in international airspace availability following the escalation of geopolitical conflict in West Asia.

The agency warned that flight cancellations, airspace closures and rising airfares due to fuel surcharges are likely to weigh on passenger traffic growth in the coming months.

It also noted that although the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has removed airfare caps introduced in December 2025, demand could soften if ticket prices rise sharply.

According to the report, some airlines have already announced curtailment of international flights because of demand disruptions and escalating costs linked to the West Asian conflict.

ICRA said this could reverse the increase in international seat capacity share witnessed during FY2026.

Lucknow Super Giants Director of Cricket Tom Moody acknowledged Pant's contribution to the team and expressed gratitude for his efforts as captain.

Rishabh approached the franchise with this request and we have respectfully accepted it, Moody said. He added that leadership transitions are never easy but emphasized that the franchise's priority now is to focus on rebuilding and restructuring the squad to achieve higher standards in the coming seasons.

Pant joined Lucknow Super Giants ahead of the 2025 season in one of the most talked-about moves in IPL history. After spending eight seasons with Delhi Capitals, the wicketkeeper-batter was acquired by Lucknow for a record-breaking Rs 27 crore at the player auction. Following the high-profile signing, he was immediately entrusted with the captaincy as the franchise looked to begin a new chapter.

However, results on the field failed to meet expectations. During the 2025 season, Pant struggled for consistency with the bat despite producing an unbeaten century. He ended the campaign with 269 runs as Lucknow finished seventh in the standings. The following season brought only marginal improvement in his batting returns, with 312 runs from 13 innings. Team performances also declined significantly, with Lucknow managing just four victories while suffering ten defeats to finish tenth and last in the league table.

The franchise had previously been led by KL Rahul from its inaugural season in 2022. Under Rahul's leadership, Lucknow qualified for the playoffs twice and finished seventh once. After parting ways with Rahul, the team sought a fresh start under Pant's captaincy, hoping to build a new competitive identity.v

Harmanpreet reveals coach Muzumdar's blunt message

NEW DELHI

Indian captain Harmanpreet Kaur has revealed the blunt dressing-room message from head coach Amol Muzumdar after the team's third consecutive defeat at the Women's World Cup 2025, admitting that the reality check played a key role in India's remarkable turnaround en route to lifting the title. Harmanpreet recalled how the atmosphere in the dressing room changed following India's defeat to England, which came after successive losses and left the team staring at an early exit from the tournament. After the England match, I think Amol sir was the only one who spoke, and he was very straightforward. Everybody took it in the right spirit because we all knew there was nothing wrong in what he was saying. That was the first time I saw his volume go a little high because he is usually a very soft-spoken person. I remember him saying, 'Go and buy a mirror and see what you're doing and what you need to do at that stage' Harmanpreet said on JioStar.

South Africa Women To Tour Zimbabwe For First Time

CAPE TOWN

Zimbabwe Cricket has announced that South Africa Women will undertake a historic tour of Zimbabwe later this year, marking the first-ever bilateral series between the two sides on Zimbabwean soil. The tour is scheduled to take place in September 2026 and will feature five Twenty20 Internationals at the Queens Sports Club in Bulawayo.

The series represents a significant milestone for women's cricket in Zimbabwe, providing the national team with an opportunity to compete against one of the strongest sides in the international game. It will also be the first senior-level meeting between the two teams in nearly a decade. Their previous encounters came during a quadrangular tournament held in South Africa in May 2017, where the sides faced each other twice.

Zimbabwe Women will enter the series looking to gain valuable experience and improve their performances against top-ranked opposition. The team last hosted an international series at home during September and October 2025, when they welcomed the United Arab Emirates Women's team. Since then, Zimbabwe have undertaken overseas tours to New Zealand and Pakistan as part of their efforts to gain greater international exposure.

Zimbabwe will host South Africa Women in a historic five-match T20 International series in September

Despite those opportunities, Zimbabwe experienced a difficult campaign in the Women's Twenty20 World Cup Qualifier held in Nepal earlier this year. The team was unable to secure qualification for the global tournament, which is scheduled to begin in England next month. The upcoming series against South Africa is therefore expected to play an important role in the team's preparations and long-term development.

Zimbabwe Cricket Managing Director Givemore Makoni welcomed the announcement, describing the tour as a landmark occasion for women's cricket in the country. He said hosting a world-class side such as South Africa would provide Zimbabwean players with a valuable opportunity to test their skills against elite competition while playing in familiar home conditions.

Makoni also emphasized that the series reflects Zimbabwe Cricket's ongoing commitment to strengthening the women's game and creating more opportunities for female cricketers to compete at the highest level. He noted that regular exposure to strong international teams is essential for player development and the growth of the sport within the country.

The five-match series is expected to attract considerable interest from cricket fans and provide an important platform for both teams ahead of future international assignments. For South Africa Women, the tour offers another opportunity to build momentum and fine-tune their squad, while for Zimbabwe Women it represents a chance to gain experience, confidence and valuable competitive exposure against one of the leading teams in world cricket.

Jemimah and Yastika's partnership made the difference,' says Dean after ENG loss

CHELMSFORD

England stand-in captain Charlotte Dean admitted the huge partnership between Jemimah Rodrigues and Yastika Bhatia proved decisive as England suffered a 38-run defeat to India in the opening match of the three-game Women's T20I series at the County Ground.

England made the perfect start after Lauren Bell struck twice in the opening over to dismiss Smriti Mandhana and Shafali Verma, reducing India to 7/2.

However, Yastika and Rodrigues counterattacked brilliantly with a 126-run stand for the third wicket, helping India recover strongly and post 188/7 in 19.5 overs.

Reflecting on the game, Dean said England started well but failed to stop India's momentum through the middle overs.

Two early wickets. But they kept scoring runs despite those early wickets. They had wickets in hand. Played really well, Dean said after the match.

Dean praised her side's effort in challenging weather conditions and credited Bell for her performance with the ball. Bell finished with figures of 3/34 and bowled effectively both with the new ball and at the death.

Proud of the effort in hot conditions. Bell bowled well at the start and the death, she said.

Chasing 189, England were kept in the contest by Amy Jones, who played a fighting knock of 67. Heather Knight also contributed 21 during a 64-run stand for the third wicket, but England eventually finished on 150/8.

BCCI Bans Smart Goggles During IPL Matches

NEW DELHI

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) has issued a strict directive prohibiting the possession and use of smart goggles and smart sunglasses by players and support staff participating in the Indian Premier League (IPL) 2026. The instruction was communicated through the BCCI's Anti Corruption and Security Unit (ACSU) as part of enhanced measures aimed at protecting the integrity and security of the tournament.

According to protocols circulated to IPL franchises on May 18, certain smart eyewear devices currently available in the market are equipped with advanced communication and recording capabilities. These features include live streaming, audio and video recording, text messaging, as well as voice and video calling through mobile data or Wi-Fi connectivity.

The ACSU has expressed concerns that such technology could potentially compromise the strict security framework maintained within controlled tournament environments. As a result, these devices have been classified under the Players and Match Officials Area (PMOA) regulations as both communication devices and audio-video recording equipment.

Under existing PMOA guidelines, players, team officials and support staff are not permitted to carry communication or recording devices within designated restricted areas on match days. The BCCI has therefore made it clear that smart goggles and similar wearable technology fall within the category of prohibited items.

To ensure compliance, all players and support personnel have been instructed to deposit any such devices with the designated Security Liaison Officer before entering the Players and Match Officials Area.

Australia Backs Sutherland for Key Finishing Role

SYDNEY

Australia head coach Shelley Nitschke has expressed confidence in Annabel Sutherland taking on an important finishing role at the 2026 Women's T20 World Cup, highlighting the all-rounder's versatility as a major asset for the team ahead of the global tournament.

Australia will enter this year's competition with a different challenge compared to recent editions. For the first time since 2018, the team will not be defending the World Cup title, creating a fresh dynamic as they aim to reclaim the championship. Preparations are already underway, with Australia scheduled to play three practice matches against South Africa Women's Cricket Team in Arundel beginning on Sunday. Additional warm-up fixtures against England Women's Cricket Team and West Indies Women's Cricket Team will follow before their tournament opener against South Africa on June 13.

Speaking ahead of the event, Nitschke indicated that Australia is close to finalising its preferred playing eleven. However, she acknowledged that varying conditions during the tournament may require flexibility in team selection and player roles.

While Sutherland's place in the side appears secure due to her effectiveness with the ball, discussions have continued regarding her batting position and responsibilities. The 24-year-old has established herself as a valuable contributor in Australia's T20 setup, particularly through her pace bowling and ability to influence matches in multiple ways.

Sutherland's batting role has evolved throughout her international career. In 48 T20 International appearances, she has batted only 23 times, with most of those innings coming in the lower middle order at numbers seven and eight. Despite limited opportunities, she has produced several impactful performances, including a memorable debut against England in 2020 when a rapid 22 runs from just 11 deliveries helped force a Super Over.

During Australia's most recent T20 International series against India in February, Sutherland batted below the returning Nicola Carey in one match. Team management explained that decision as a tactical move based on matchups, particularly because Carey is a left-handed batter.

'I was broken inside': Jemimah reveals mental battle behind India's World Cup triumph

NEW DELHI

India batter Jemimah Rodrigues has revealed the emotional turmoil she went through during the ICC Women's World Cup 2025, admitting that the pressure of performing at a home tournament and being dropped from the playing XI for a crucial match left her broken inside.

Speaking on JioStar's 'Unstoppable' ahead of the ICC Women's T20 World Cup 2026, Jemimah reflected on the difficult phase she endured even before the tournament began, as expectations and pressure started taking a toll on her mentally.

For some reason, even before the World Cup started, I was not doing well mentally. Maybe it was because it was a home World Cup, and with the expectations that come with it. And it being a World Cup, the pressure doubles, Jemimah said.

In the very first match, I got out for a duck off the first ball itself. That really broke me; it crushed me. The worst part was that it started affecting my fielding as well. I am someone who enjoys fielding, but I was putting so much pressure on myself that I wasn't able to move the way I normally do. I made a few misfields, which I usually wouldn't, she added.

India's World Cup campaign had reached a critical stage after consecutive defeats left their semi-final hopes hanging by a thread. Jemimah revealed that a quickfire knock against Australia in the league stage helped her regain some confidence before the all-important clash against England.

Then came the league game against Australia, where I scored an impactful 33-odd at a good strike rate. That gave me some confidence, and I told myself, 'Okay, fine. The England game is very important. Let's do whatever it takes to win against England,' she said.

I really wanted to do it for the team because the World Cup was at stake, and we had already lost two games in a row. That game was crucial, she added.

However, on the morning of the England match, Jemimah received news that left her devastated.

Amol sir messaged me saying, 'I need to talk to you.' Then, at the ground, I was told that I had been dropped from the team for that game. I was broken inside, she revealed.
